Mark off a paw print for every book you read!

A black and white line drawing of a winding path that starts at the top left, curves to the right, then loops back to the left, and finally curves to the right again. The path is bordered by a low wall on the outside of each curve. The interior of the path is filled with small, stylized paw prints. Three wooden signs are placed along the path: one in the first curve on the right, one in the second curve on the right, and one in the third curve on the left. Each sign is a rectangular plank with a post, and it contains the text '600 BOOKS', '650 BOOKS', and '700 BOOKS' respectively. The signs are slightly tilted. There are also some small, stylized bushes or trees along the path.
