Mark off a paw print for every book you read!

A black and white line drawing of a winding path that starts at the top left, curves to the right, then loops back to the left, and finally curves to the right again. The path is bordered by a low wall on the outside. The interior of the path is filled with small, stylized paw prints. There are three wooden signs placed along the path, each on a post. The signs are rectangular with a rough, weathered texture. The first sign is located in the middle of the first curve and reads "600 BOOKS". The second sign is located in the middle of the second curve and reads "650 BOOKS". The third sign is located in the middle of the third curve and reads "700 BOOKS". There are also some small, stylized bushes or trees along the path.
